LOCAL SWEET ADELINE CHORUS SUPPORT NBA WOMEN'S BASKETBALL TEAM

BALTIMORE, MARYLAND, JULY 18, 2008: On July 13, 2008, thirty-one a cappella singers were honored to sing the National Anthem prior to the WNBA Washington Mystics home game. One member of the basketball team was heard to say: "It sounded good and they ALL looked as if they were enjoying themselves."

It was a special day for the members of Harbor City Music Company Show Chorus (HCMC) as the day was all about breast health awareness (sponsored by Sibley Memorial Hospital). Terrie Young, HCMC's Performance Coordinator and Obsessive, Avid Mystics supporter arranged to have an autographed Mystics basketball presented to Eve Sclawy, a member of the chorus, who is courageously battling and beating breast cancer. Fans received pink rally towels and HCMC members all wore pink shirts rallying in support of those who have survived breast cancer.

Harbor City Music Company is an award-winning Sweet Adeline International Chorus located in Brooklyn Park, Maryland with members from all over the state of Maryland. They are currently holding auditions for women who love the performing arts; love to sing and are interested in learning about their special blend of music.
